

The Next Generation in Action

From student design teams to experienced professionals, the showcase created opportunities to connect, share knowledge, and explore the future of engineering looks like on Vancouver Island.

The projects featured at the showcase reflect more than technical ability. They demonstrate problem-solving, teamwork, and a commitment to building something meaningful.

